RUSSIAN FORCES PUSH ITALIANS BACK

By JAMES E. BROWN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
MOSCOW, Sept. 1.—Re-surgent Soviet armies counter-attacked today north-west of Stalingrad and south of Krasnodar in the west Caucasus where an inhabited locality was wrested from the Germans.

The Soviet high command reported that heavy losses were inflicted on the Nazis when the counter-blow was struck south of Krasnodar.

Front line dispatches from the Stalingrad battle area said that the main forces of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's army after pushing Italian units back in the Kletska region, crossed to the west bank of the Don River during the night and were continuing to advance. The river crossing was said to have taken place 70 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

The Germans obviously were in a difficult position in some sectors northwest of Stalingrad, while Timoshenko's defensive positions are being steadily strengthened.

Nazi Rush Reserves
Soviet units pressing their advantage were reported to have recaptured five villages and the Germans were said to be rushing in reserves from other sectors in an attempt to halt the onslaught.

A new offensive by the Germans was reported underway in the western Caucasus where the Nazis are

By JACK VINCENT
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The United Nations, rising to their might at an ever-quickening pace, have more than 15,000,000 men under arms, with another 16,000,000 to 19,000,000 in reserve, a survey showed today on the third anniversary of that fateful

The survey was made possible by publication of a pamphlet by the office of war information in which the OWI told "the housed nation" living in the United Nations that "there is no other road to freedom" but by strength of arms and fighting spirit.

The pamphlet, outlining the military strength and the backgrounds of the people of the United Nations, was designed, the OWI said, to

Fireman Overcome At Blaze Last Night

Report That Children Were In Blazing Home Prompts Rescue Effort

Called to the home of Mrs. W. W. Tindall, of rear 609 South Ray street, at 11:20 o'clock Monday night, firemen found a real blaze in the making. On their arrival they were told two children were in the apartment, upstairs over a garage.

Fireman John Oberleiner rushed into the building to try and rescue the children, but found no one there, and later learned the mother had taken them to the home of their grandparents. Oberleiner was overcome by smoke and was revived at the scene by the use of the inhalator.

Firemen soon had the blaze under control, damage to the home and contents amounting to around $150.

At 7:25 o'clock, Monday evening, firemen were summoned to the corner of East Washington and County-line streets, with a telephone report there was a fire at that location. The message proved to be false.

New Bomb Raids On Burma Bases

American Bombers Make Second Heavy Raid In Two Days

(BULLETIN)
CHUNGKING, Sept. 1.—American bombers carried out a second heavy raid in two days on the Japanese North Burma base at Myitkyina, and started at least five fires in the railway storage area and several fires among troop barracks, a communiqué from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

As in Sunday's raids, all American bombers and their fighter escorts returned safely to their bases. Two large fires and three smaller ones were left burning fiercely along the railroad tracks and storage sheds where supplies for the Japanese Burma army are accumulated for distribution. Direct hits were scored on enemy barracks buildings, starting several big blazes in the area.

On Sunday the U. S. Air Corps blasted the Myitkyina airdrome and Japanese-occupied areas in the town itself.

The enemy base at Lashio, to the south, was bombed Saturday. More than 30 direct hits were made on the airdrome and dispersal areas, and a score more bombs fell on a group of warehouses.

Patriotism Keynote Of Big Republican Rally Here Monday

Tearing off in the opening of their fall campaign, Lawrence County Republicans held the largest political rally seen in the county in many years when they met Monday afternoon in Cascade Park for an old fashioned corn and wiener roast. Between 3500 and 4000 attended, and among the crowd were visitors from Beaver and Mercer counties.

Politics ran second to patriotism at the rally and the gathering might easily have been termed a patriotic rally. Most of the speakers stressed the winning of the war rather than the getting out the vote and the address of the principal speaker, General Edward Martin, candidate for governor was conspicuous for its absence of political references.

Victory Or Else
"This meeting today is a great demonstration of Democracy at work" said General Martin. "Only in America at the present time could such a meeting be held. This is a year when winning the war overshadows every other endea-

(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The war department today announced that checks totaling $4,500,000 are being mailed to relatives and dependents of 36,000 enlisted men in all parts of the country.

Representing the first full payments authorized under the service's new dependents allowance act, 12,000 checks were mailed today and 24,000 more will be mailed before September 5. These 36,000 checks represent about 72,000 beneficiaries.

Advance payments of $5,808,000 have already been made to dependents of some 40,000 soldiers to alleviate actual hardship during the time which elapsed between the dates soldiers applications were filed and the first family allowances were authorized. The war department explained this sum will be subtracted from the initial full family allowance payment.

Checks now being mailed covered amounts that have accrued since June 1 and processed up to August 29.

America's World-Wide Offensive War Attack Shaping Up Rapidly

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—America's world-wide offensive against the Axis is beginning to take shape rapidly today in land, sea and air assaults of mounting intensity and widening scope, and war analysts asserted that fierce and perhaps decisive battles may be expected in the near future.

Spearheading the American offensive are U. S. bombing planes and crews which have been taking the air against the enemy with increasing frequency and strength in occupied Europe, North Africa, Burma, China and the southwest Pacific.

Meanwhile, U. S. Marines in the Solomons are consolidating their gains on at least six islands seized from the Japanese and keeping on the alert against Japanese counter-attacks while preparing for possible further advances.

Allied Bombers Order Increase In Coal Price

Order Issued By Secretary Ickes Is Effective On October 1

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The bituminous coal division of the Department of the Interior today ordered an average increase of 15.33 cents a ton in the price of coal at the nation's mines.

The order is effective Oct. 1. Issued by Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, it increases prices in various coal mining regions from 5 to 30 cents a ton. The increases will average approximately 15 cents a ton.

Coal companies were granted until Sept. 10 to appeal the order. The order was based on a long series of hearings and comprised the first general revision of minimum prices at the mines of the nation's soft coal industry.

There was no indication of how the price increases would affect retail prices, but it was believed that there may be a slight increase in retail prices at a later date. The price increases were granted, the Interior Department said, because of increased costs in mining.

Rommel's columns attempted to push through the center of the British Imperial line, but all positions were firmly held.

It was presumed from this declaration that the Axis forces are now in contact with the chief Imperial line.

New Draft Classification Order Given

Men 20 To 45 To Be Classified

Hershey Orders That Work Be Completed By Boards By October 16

OTHER REGULATIONS GIVEN TO BOARDS

By WILLIAM L. UMSTEAD
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Director of selective service, today ordered local draft boards throughout the nation to classify every man between 20 and 45 by October 16.

Hershey said that the immediate classification of all men in the nation liable for military service was necessary because of the "serious military situation" requiring complete information on the country's manpower.

At the same time, Hershey directed state selective service directors to appportion calls for inductees from local boards so that no board will call registrants with dependents in advance of another board.

The selective service chief instructed draft boards to proceed at once with the reclassification of all class 3-A and class 3-B registrants who have dependents with whom they do not maintain a bona fide family relationship.

Induction Plan
As present needs for certain occupational deferments expire, Hershey said, single men and others not conforming to the type now being called will be inducted.

"And the same situation," he added, "will apply to men reaching the age of 20 and thereby becoming eligible for selection."

The classification drive now underway for completion by October 16 is the first effort ever made to enumerate the nation's total manpower of military age, Hershey pointed out.

"We have reached the point where such a nation-wide survey is possible and also imperative," he said, pointing out that all men liable for military service under present laws are now registered.

To prevent local boards in some states from inducting married men prior to other boards in the state, Hershey instructed state directors to place calls so as to place the heaviest loads at the present time on boards having the most single men, or with men with dependents other than wives and children.

Hershey told local draft boards that men married before December 8, 1941, or "at a time when selection was not imminent" and who do not have children may be reclassified. However, he ordered, men married before December 8 and who have children must not be placed in Class 1-A until such action is authorized by national headquarters.

Heretofore, Hershey said, local draft boards have classified registrants in accordance with army induction calls but now mounting needs for military manpower make it desirable to complete classification as soon as possible so that army requisitions for men, no matter how large, may be met promptly.

Citing the intent of congress in the passage of the servicemen's dependents allowance act to recognize certain groups of dependency, the draft chief said:

"Our policy is to follow the order of dependency deferment set up in the selective service regulations to the fullest extent consistent with the local board's ability to furnish the number of men required by the military forces each month. It is our further policy to follow the order of deferments on a nationwide basis as far as possible."

SOVIET ARMIES CONTINUE TO COUNTER-ATTACK

attempting to penetrate toward the Black Sea ports of Novorossisk and Tuapse.

A German attempt to cross a river southeast of Prokhladnaya, 80 miles northwest of the Grozny oil fields in the mid-Caucasus, was reported frustrated by the high command.

A Soviet counter-attack then was launched in this region.

On other sectors of the Stalingrad front the Soviet lines appeared to be holding firmly despite a previous infiltration of Nazis into Russian positions northwest of the city and the forcing of a wedge into the defense lines southwest.

Repulse Nazi Attacks
The high command said that northwest of the Volga industrial city fierce fighting raged unabated. Three heavy Nazi attacks were said to have been repulsed.

In the vicinity of Kletskaya, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the noon communiqué said, the Nazis were forced to retreat after the Soviets beat off a determined attack by Nazi tanks and infantry.

Nazi troops suffered heavy losses and 30 tanks were destroyed, the high command said.

Northeast of Kletskaya, on the southern Salient before Stalingrad, Soviet tanks repelled several German attacks.

Northwest of Moscow, where a large-scale Soviet counter-offensive is under way, the Red army made additional gains in the Rzhev and Kalinin sectors, an official communiqué declared.

The high command acknowledged that a group of German troops infiltrated into Soviet positions northwest of Stalingrad after a fierce engagement with defense forces.

Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock immediately sought to send in reinforcements to exploit the gain but the Germans suffered enormous losses.

sible extension of their offensive in that area at the earliest practicable moment.

In New Guinea, United Nations forces, mostly Australians, are battling fiercely to prevent the Japanese from extending their domination over that island and to hold the important base at Port Moresby.

On North African Front
On the North African front, a major clash is expected momentarily between Axis invaders and Great Britain's defending army, which includes some American tank units plus U. S. aircraft and pilots.

In China, American bombing planes with U. S. fliers at the controls are aiding the Chinese army's latest counter offensive against the Japanese, in which vital bases within bombing range of Japan have been seized.

Off Alaska, patrol bombers and possibly submarines are understood to be keeping close watch on Japanese movements in the Aleutian Islands occupied by Nipponese forces, and further action is anticipated before winter weather sets in.

This does not mean, however, that the initiative now rests entirely with the United States in the Pacific, or with British and United Nations' forces in the European war theater.

Expect Fierce Blows
Fierce blows by Japan and Germany are expected on scattered fronts at any time now as the Axis nations work against time to win vital gains before the United States is able to move great forces and materials to the war fronts.

Some military experts assert that Japan may strike momentarily at Soviet Siberia with a lightning thrust designed to gain long-coveted territory in the Vladivostok area.

At the same time, naval sources assert that the Nipponese undoubtedly will strike again in the Solomon Islands in an effort to dislodge American garrisons. Such a move may be accompanied by diversionary thrusts possibly at Midway or in the Aleutians.

Germany, meanwhile, is pressing on toward vital oil in the Caucasus and Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is expected to reopen his drive on Egypt at any time.

The need for speed on the part of the Axis was best illustrated by a Navy announcement that on Labor Day just nine months after the Pearl Harbor attack, there will be 150 keel layings and launchings of warships and other naval vessels in shipyards throughout the nation.

General Martin was introduced by County Chairman Roger W. Rowland who handled the meeting. The rally started about three in the afternoon and the corn and wieners were served about five. So large was the crowd that part of the food supplies ran out before seven o'clock and replenishments had to be secured.

Congressman Louis E. Graham was introduced and explained that his absence during the campaign was due to his decision to stick on the job. "We are all pledged to every effort necessary to win this war," said Congressman Graham.

"There is no difference of opinion in this matter," he continued, "but we reserve the right to constructive criticism of wasteful methods. Indeed the most constant critics of the administration's waste are members of the Democratic party such as Byrd, Glass, Tydings and Truman. Their criticism and ours however goes only into methods. It has nothing to do with our whole hearted determination to win the war."

Judge Joseph Stadfield of Pittsburgh, a member of the Superior court and a candidate for re-election was the next speaker. Judge Stadfield was introduced by Judge W. Walter Graham of the Lawrence county court.

Like General Martin, Judge Stadfield's address was almost entirely a plea to greater effort to win the war. "As free men and women we cannot afford and we will not tolerate the efforts of the dictators to crush our freedoms here in America," said Judge Stadfield.

William S. Livengood
Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livengood followed Judge Stadfield. Mr. Livengood devoted some part of his address to the political issues. Said he: "The Democratic candidate for governor, P. Clair Ross, has said that he would start as governor where George H. Earle left off. That should be enough for the voters for the record of Governor Earle was not one to be proud of."

He left the state with a deficit of $90,000,000 in tax time high, his regime was weakened by legislation designed to whitewash corrupt practices and gag grand juries from looking into the corruption."

Before General Martin spoke, a $25 war bond was given away to the holder of a lucky number. The winner was Mrs. J. Wheale of Boyles avenue. Mr. Pritchard called upon Ivor V. Davis to handle the drawing and Mr. Davis called upon James P. Toler to assist him.

General Martin was the closing speaker and his reception was enthusiastic. A soldier and a public official for forty years General Martin apparently impressed the crowd with his sincerity and determination, judging from the reception accorded him. At the close of the meeting he and the other candidates formed a reception line and shook hands with hundreds of the crowd.

From every angle the rally was a success. Weather was perfect, and despite the fact that so many people are busy these days, an unexpectedly large crowd turned out for the affair.

ALLIED BOMBERS SMASH AGAIN AT NEW GUINEA BASES

by the returning crews. All Allied planes returned safely and said they had encountered practically no opposition.

Grounded planes were destroyed or damaged, fuel dumps were fired, great craters were blasted in the airfield runways, and enemy camps and anti-aircraft batteries were blown to bits.

Hunt Down Japs
Hardy Australian infantrymen meantime hunted down the remnants of Japanese troops that landed last week on the shores of Milne Bay on the extreme eastern tip of New Guinea where the Nipponese walked into a well-prepared trap.

The defeated Japanese landing parties at Milne Bay carried mobile flame-throwers, it was learned, but their actual use in combat was not confirmed. The Japanese have used flame-throwers with some effect in China but military experts question their worth in out and out jungle fighting.

The Japanese made a weak attempt to relieve pressure on its beleaguered troops skulking in the hills north of Milne Bay, with an attack by seven fighter planes on the allied airbase in the area.

The attack caused no damage, said reports received at Gen MacArthur's headquarters.

Attack on Lae
Medium bombers made the surprise attack on Lae and dropped at least ten tons of bombs on the airfield, hangars and grounded planes. Five large fuel dumps were destroyed and the flames could be seen for 30 miles, the returning pilots reported. Buildings were hit and big craters left in the runways.

Many grounded planes were destroyed or damaged, further reducing the enemy's striking power through the air in the New Guinea sector. All allied bombers returned safely to their base.

A squadron of heavy bombers, presumably American flying fortresses manned by U. S. Air Corps crews, smashed again at Buna, the Japanese base on the north coast of the Papua territory from Port Moresby. The big four-motored planes went in at low level and their precision bombing started a number of fires and knocked out enemy anti-aircraft batteries.

Buna is 200 miles from Milne Bay and Lae is 350 miles from the scene of the frustrated Japanese invasion attempt.

In Contact at Kokoda
Meantime allied ground forces were in contact with enemy forces at Kokoda, midway between Buna and Port Moresby, and in the vicinity of Salamaua, the enemy base just south of Lae.

Allied fighter planes, cooperating with ground forces holding off the Japanese patrols around Kokoda on the ridge of the Owen Stanley mountain range, poured machine gun fire into the enemy ranks.

There were no details of the results of the clashes at Salamaua and Kokoda, but it was indicated they were no more than light patrol actions designed to prevent the enemy from improving his positions.

Earlier reports of the enemy route at Milne Bay said the Japanese landing force had lost all of its heavy equipment. Of the small number of tanks landed, at least three were destroyed, it was reported.

News of the disastrous defeat of the Japanese at Milne Bay cheered Australia, but there was a note of caution amidst the jubilation. It was pointed out that the enemy still has the resources on the bases of New Britain and New Ireland Islands, and in the northern Solomons to attempt an all-out invasion attempt at Milne Bay—and possibly against Port Moresby itself.

True friends are made in youth. After fifty a man is too critical to like many people who aren't useful to him.

AXIS FORCES IN 8 MILE ADVANCE ON DESERT FRONT

perial defenses after breaching the minefields.

The situation was described as "fully under control."

Announcement of the new flare-up in hostilities after a two-month lull was made in a British communiqué which disclosed that a thrust against the central sector of the defense line had been repulsed and that Imperial forces were battling Axis units which struck at their southern flank.

These assaults, military observers said, may mark the start of the long expected offensive by the Germans and Italians to make a final bid to smash through to the Middle East through Egypt.

U. S. Bombers In Action
American squadrons of B-25 medium bombers participated actively in yesterday's successful bombing attacks in the battle area, it was announced.

Several Axis airplanes were shot down by Imperial land forces defending the naval base of Alexandria along a 35-mile front 70 miles to the west, the communiqué said.

United States and British bombers during the night carried out successful raids against concentrations of German and Italian vehicles in the battle area.

Activity flared along the front stretching south from El Alamein on the Mediterranean coast, to the Qattara depression when German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel launched an attack yesterday morning.

The principal assault was made by strong armored forces against British positions in the vicinity of El Himeimat, 25 miles south of El Alamein.

JAPS CAN BE BEATEN

THE Navy's stirring round-up communique on the Solomon Islands leaves no doubt that earlier statements concerning the fierceness of the fighting there were well founded. But it also goes a long way to debunk the legend of Jap invincibility.

That legend has been assiduously cultivated by the Japanese military clique along with their much-overworked superiority complex says the Philadelphia Inquirer. It had a good buildup through the China war. It gained ground through the earlier months of this one. Why shouldn't it?

The Japs had been preparing and planning for ten years, probably longer. When they went after an objective they used overwhelming forces, like their 7000 troops landed on Guam, against 555 Marines.

Even that system didn't get them very far along on Bataan. They had to send for large reinforcements. These facts, reflecting the magnificent fighting qualities of Filipino and American soldiers, got lost in the shuffle of the final tragic surrender.

But the Solomons are showing us that we have some of the finest fighting men in the world—and bear in mind that in General Vandegrift's victorious force there are innumerable young recruits who got their first taste of battle on the beaches at Tulagi. There the Japs were not in overwhelming numbers. They were well matched.

Their system of dying to the last man in their dugouts is the bravery of fanaticism ingrained in them through years of service. But the end was the same—man for man the Marines were better and first-line Japanese soldiers have taken a complete beating, as their fighting ships did at Midway and in the Coral Sea.

Returning diplomats assure us that the Japanese people will "never surrender; they must be destroyed." That's as may be. We should also note the viewpoint of Wilfrid Fleisher, who spent many years in Japan, and who believes that when the news, and eventually the effects, of serious reverses get home to them it "may quickly shatter the mass superiority complex now so much in evidence in Japan and yield to panic and resentment against those military leaders who led the nation into this war."

The Solomons represent one of those serious reverses, without a doubt. The big drive and the good work started there must go on.

FIRE CONTROL STATIONS

An authority on fire-fighting recently said that practically all fires could be extinguished with a glass of water at the beginning. The great, destructive fires, in other words, are caused largely by delay in discovering and fighting them.

In these days, when maximum conservation of materials and labor is vital, fire control is the duty of everyone—housewife, executive, foreman and worker. And fire control has two distinct phases.

The first phase is fire prevention. That simply means that every home and every place of business must be periodically inspected, and all fire hazards, no matter how minor they may seem, promptly eliminated. Any one can obtain the necessary information on what to look for from fire departments, fire marshals, or from the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 85 John St., New York City.

The second phase is fire protection. And it isn't enough to depend on your local fire-fighting department, no matter how good it is. A fire which could be immediately put out in its first stage, may turn a home or a factory into a raging inferno in a matter of minutes. A little equipment, plus a little knowledge, makes it possible for any one to extinguish the average fire safely and swiftly.

It is well to have a chemical extinguisher of an approved type on hand. In addition, have a supply of sand and a hose where you can reach them immediately. Sand is a first-class extinguisher, and should be used wherever it is too difficult to reach a fire with water. When you tackle a fire, move fast—and don't get excited.

Everyone who can should take advantage of the fire control instruction given by civilian defense organizations. The lessons on how to defend ourselves against incendiary attack can be applied with equal force to all other kinds of fire. The goal we must strive for is to make "every house a fire control station."

ABSENT WORKERS

Absenteeism of war workers is giving the War Production Board and employers growing concern. Various methods have been tried by employers to keep absentee rates down, but with less success than present needs require.

Not long ago the WPB joined with seven other government agencies in a plea to war industries to adopt the 48-hour schedule of six eight-hour days. It was directed particularly to plants operating on an around-the-clock basis. With the shortage of skilled labor, this has meant long hours every day of the week for many workers. Inevitably, excessive hours over long periods bring about absences due to fatigue, along with loss of sustained efficiency.

But if long hours contribute to absences, so do wages when greatly augmented by overtime payments. With more money to spend at the same time that opportunity for spending it is narrowed, the work incentive is lessened.

Effects of both factors—hours and wages—are set forth in a report issued by the National Industrial Conference Board, based on rather extended research. Steps taken by various large corporations to try to reduce absenteeism are presented and doubtless some of the methods could be widely applied with advantage. But the first requisite is a case study of causes, which vary from plant to plant.

It has become quite evident that the solution is not to be found in any single formula.

We don't know what they use in Japan for an eight ball, but it ought to be big, whatever it is, because all of the Japs are going to be behind it some of these days.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PATIENCE GETS CHILD TO TALKING

Many parents grow alarmed about their young child if he does not talk or walk or do other things as early as a neighbor's child; or if his achievement or development does not measure up to some of the published standards based on the average of many children.

This even applies to weight and height tables. Fortunately many pediatricians are warning mothers against taking such standards too seriously, reminding them they need to take into account many factors which only the experts can safely evaluate.

In matters of achievement, speech development often causes concern.

Here is a letter to the point, and approval. "He's quite right" I write to practically everything you write. "But a week or two ago I became alarmed. You said, 'The vocabulary of an average two-year-old is . . . 200 words approximately.'"

"That gives my small son, who will be two in September, less than two months to learn the other 198."

Mother Worried
"Should I be alarmed? He is very cunning, healthy and happy. He says 'Mama' and 'Da-da'. When he was about 15 months old, said 'curry' for curtain and 'shaa' for shoe, and 'so' for soap."

"One day I said, 'What's this, Calvin?' showing him the curtain. He said, 'Da' and I slapped his hands. Since then he has repeated nothing."

"My chief worry is that by slapping his hands I have set up some sort of complex."

"So all right. It's my fault. I'm perfectly willing to admit it. But I don't know what to do about it. Do you, Dr. Myers?"

"Please do answer in the enclosed stamped envelope. I should love to have him talk by September when his father will be home on furlough. How I should like to have him say 'Hello Old Stranger' or words equally appropriate."

The Doctor's Advice

I like the sense of humor of this mother and trust that her hopes will be realized when the father comes home. I believe that if she will do as I advised. She should stop scolding herself and also stop urging the youngster to talk. She ought to talk about things going on about the house and read to him a great deal. He also ought to play with children who do lots of talking. And she should always be very affectionate with the little boy.

I feel sure she is unduly worried over the damage she might have done by slapping his hands, unfortunately as that procedure was. I would like to make clear to her that unhappy associations, especially physical pain, only makes the child less willing to talk. Make painful only the few things the child must never do and pleasant the many things you wish him to do.

NAZIS EXECUTE SEVENTEEN

It is published every day: "Seventeen the Nazis slay." Twenty-eight or thirty-four. Every day they slaughter more. Every dawn, and none knows why. Men are ordered out to die. Helpless men and women fall at some German firing wall.

Why the Nazis? Why not say "Seventeen the Germans slay"? Why from such a deep disgrace? Hide and shield the German race? 'Tis the German hands are red! Why say Nazi then instead? We say British, French and Dane. Why with Germans not be plain?

It is published every day: "Twenty-seven the Nazis slay." "Fire!" the German captains cry And their helpless victims die. By the Aryan and the Hun these vicious deeds are done. Why then hide such dreadful shame Underneath the Nazi name?

Done with Nazi I would be! Every crime on land and sea And the stain of them, I swear. I would make the Germans wear. Broken promise, pillage, loot. All are German, stank and root! Why then cover German shame Underneath a spurious name? (Copyright, 1942, Edgar A. Guest)

Bible Thought For Today

Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth, is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all.

Words Of Wisdom

If we fasten our attention on what we have, rather than on what we lack, a very little wealth is sufficient.—F. Johnson.

That old axiom is out. What the people don't know hurts them.

A famed child psychologist says never to tell a fairy story to the young. Sounds like good advice. They will hear enough when they grow old enough to vote.

We rather like the thought of the fellow who says the more love you give the more you have left.

There always have been a lot of people favoring sharing rides. They can be seen wiggling their thumbs along all the highways.

AMAZING

A man was known for his inability to think of anything to say to women. His friends were amazed when, the morning after meeting a strange girl at a dance, it was announced that he had become engaged. One inquired how it had happened.

"Well," said the tongue-tied one, "I lunched with her three times and couldn't think of anything else to say."

We can hear loud noises any time we don't want to hear them.

A South Side mother was quite perplexed because her little son did not want to eat anything but soup. He kept it up for several days. She finally got him to eat. "Mom," he said, "I heard if I ate soup all of the time I'd be a superman—and that's what I want to be."

A local patriot got a shock when he was invited out to dinner. They had Italian spaghetti, German fried potatoes and Japanese rice cakes. He wasn't very hungry anyhow.

A stranded English actor went into a sordid eating house in New York for a cheap meal and was horrified to recognize the waiter as a colleague who had played with him in London.

"Great Scott!" he gasped. "You a waiter in this place?"

"Yes, but I don't eat here," replied the other with dignity.

People who used to jog at six miles an hour on Sunday afternoon to visit the cemeteries have succeeded by the folk who speed sixty miles to fill them.

Carnival companies are now getting sugar to feed their monkeys. Sounds kind of human.

Father—Sonny, why don't you get the habit of going to the dictionary when you want to know how to spell a word?

Sonny—I do sometimes—but somehow the dictionary always has it wrong.

It's the duty we do today that counts. We can do nothing about the duty we should have done ten years ago.

Barbara—I'd like to be a mermaid, wouldn't you, Joany?

Little Joany—No, 'cause then I wouldn't have anything to hang up for Christmas.

This fast-drying ink wasn't necessary. The other always dries by the time we find a blotter.

One of our visiting congressmen was in an expansive mood after the chamber of commerce had treated him to a banquet.

"This is a good meal," he said, "and it reminds me of a happening back in Washington. I was hungry, but didn't want to go to the trouble of ordering a meal when I stepped into the house restaurant. So I just told the waiter to bring me on some good food. He did and I was well pleased, so I gave him a generous tip."

Then he thanked me and asked me if I had any friends who couldn't read, either, to send them to him and he'd see they were well cared for."

Many accidents have been caused by the rush and even the horses have been doing a lot of kicking.

A Pittsburgh woman got a divorce from her husband because he got drunk and boisterous at parties and also threatened to kill her. The brute!

GO EVERYWHERE

An American tourist was standing on the bank of the Premier mine. It was his first visit to South Africa, and he was being shown around the mines. He turned to the guide.

"This place reminds me of hell," he said.

"Gee, but you Americans do travel," replied the guide.

There is lots of fat people would like to lose but the government does not have a painless way of getting it.

In some places in Europe "losing your head" means having it shot off.

"Way so out of sorts, Jones?" "Oh, I've had a very trying day. My office boy tried that old one about wanting the afternoon off to attend his grandmother's funeral and I decided to teach him a lesson, so I said I would go with him."

"Well, was it a good ball game?" "I wasn't a ball game at all. It was his grandmother's funeral."

About the only things that will make people look up these days is an airplane floating above.

Good Taste

A lot of men have been successful because they began at the bottom and worked up, but it is no way to become a successful well digger.

Away back in the good old days When folks would practice saving ways.

They took a pair of father's pants And cut them down for brother. Since then all things have suffered change.

To practice thrift we now arrange To purloin little sister's skirt. And cut it down for mother.

Little David—Mummy, what is a fictitious character?

Mother—One that is made up, darling.

Little David—Then you are a fictitious character, aren't you, Mummy?

Wife—I believe so many marriages fail because too few wives realize the road to a man's heart is through his stomach.

Hubby—The trouble is too many of you wives think it should be a road laid with bricks and stones and concrete.

There's the story about the traveling salesman who got caught in the storm and spent the night at a farmhouse. In the morning he stood at the second-story window of the house watching the flood go by, carrying pieces of barns, chicken coops, limbs of trees, etc. As he stood there, much to his amazement he saw a straw hat come floating upstream against the current. A few minutes later, down it came again. Shortly after that it floated up again. Thinking he was seeing things he called the farmer's daughter. "Do you see what I see?" he asked. The girl looked at the hat and said, "Oh, that must be grandpa. He said he'd row the lawn today in spite of hell or high water."

A young man, who has been employed just across the street from dad and mom's home, drives to and from his work. The other evening he drove up in front of his home. His mother asked, "Did you have a hard trip, son?"

Why? I suppose they read the war news too.

Thought for the day: Cotton is down four points. Try it with salt and pepper.

What If Britain, Russia Collapse?
Distinguished Filipino Has Answer
Could Concentrate On Japanese Then

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Could the war collapse of Britain and Russia be otherwise than a 100 per cent calamity to the United States, for all time to come? The answer is that it could imaginably be otherwise.

I know its imaginability, because Dr. Vincent Villamin, a distinguished Filipino visitor in this country, assures me that he's able to imagine it, and while I think it requires a pretty active imagination to do so, he's a Filipino some of whose opinions are very highly respected in official Washington.

When Uncle Sam agreed several years ago to grant independence to the Philippines in the middle 1940s, their native inhabitants generally were delighted. They were an elevated, however, which, had no doubts. This group questioned the economic desirability, from the islands' own standpoint, of a complete severance of relations with the U. S. A. It also was apprehensive of what presently did follow—an invasion of the archipelago by the Japanese.

This little coterie commissioned Dr. Villamin, notable as a Filipino lawyer, writer and politician, to oppose fulfillment of the program, at least in its entirety, for the divorce to take place at this time.

The doc was here when the war started.

Stymied By War
The Jap assault on his home islands naturally lent a deal of cogency to that detail of his argument. Nevertheless, it queered his mission in Washington, and yet he couldn't go back to Manila with Nippon in control there. At last, advice he was in Los Angeles, and it was there that I heard from him relative to conceivable European developments and their application to the Far Eastern situation, in which he's especially interested.

There are, writes the doc, "two possibilities in Europe—I'm not alling 'em probabilities—that might develop and that to the average American would seem to place this nation at a disadvantage. These possibilities are the cessation of Russo-German hostilities and the successful invasion of Britain by the Nazis."

"I maintain that realization of these two possibilities wouldn't necessarily be as disadvantageous as many people think."

The collapse of Russia and Britain would make Germany supreme in Europe. It would be logical to assume that Germany would proceed to consolidate her position and coordinate her regime on the continent. She probably would say to America: "If you want to continue the fighting, come over here and do it."

"Due to transportation's inadequacies and the lack of landing places, America won't be in a position, for some time, to undertake a full-scale European invasion. Nor will the time be ripe for Germany to push operations into the Western hemisphere. Hence there'll be a lull or temporary stalemate between America and Germany."

Germany Would Applaud
"During the stalemate, which may be likened to conditions during the Thirty Years' war, when technical hostilities prevailed, but with no real fighting, America will find herself face to face with only one enemy—Japan. Consequently this country will be in a position to concentrate all its power on the task of knocking out the Japs."

"Secretly, that'll please the Germans, with basic interests conflict racially, economically and politically with Nippon's."

"Japan being smashed, America with the help of the conquered European nations, will be in a position to resume active belligerency with Germany and settle the causes of conflict between the two."

"I don't offer this sketch by Dr. Villamin as a suggestion for a safe bet. It's an original ankle, nevertheless."

The doc, to be sure, is especially prejudiced against Japan.

Here, in the Occident, we think of Germany as the essential power to be kicked, after which we assume that the rest of the Axis will go floozy in short order. The doc looks at it from the opposite direction, for it's Japan that HIS country's being hammered by.

There's a modicum of theoretical logic to his reasoning, too.

The World and the Mud Puddles

A COURAGEOUS WOMAN

New Castle people, particularly, the patrons of the First National Bank of Lawrence County, remember very well Miss Laura Stevenson.

Her smiling face was to be found for many years within the walls of the National Bank of Lawrence County. She probably would be there yet if she was well and strong, but she has been an invalid for many years. She is now living at Pine Lawn Sanitarium, Houston, Pa. She is today just as cheerful as she ever was. Occasionally, I hear from her and she never fails to have something witty and interesting to say.

In the last letter I received from her, she told me a story dating back to the time when the late John Elder was Cashier of the National Bank of Lawrence County. It seems that John had made a personal loan to a Negro preacher of New Castle of Ten Dollars and although the preacher had made many promises to repay the Ten Dollars, he never did. One day John ran across a junkie which he thought was appropriate and he had Laura copy it and send it to the preacher and here it is:

If I should die tonight
And you should come to my cold corpse

I say, if I should die tonight
And you should come in deepest grief and woe

And say, "Here's that Ten Dollars that I owe!"
I would arise in my large white cravat and say "What's that?"

If I should die tonight
And you should come and kneel

Clasping my tier to show the grief you feel,
I say, if I should die tonight
And you should come, and there and then

Should even hint at paying me that ten—
I might arise the while but I'd drop dead again.

Even that did not produce results.

Laura has many friends in New Castle and I know she would be just as pleased to receive a letter from any of them as any man in the armed services of this country would be to receive a letter from home.

There has been a lot of hullabaloo about girls in the aircraft plants on the Pacific coast.

It seems that the executive vice-president of the Boeing Aircraft Company, in Seattle got a report from his personal manager, saying that women in plants are—women.

They wear the wrong kind of clothing, was one complaint. They often stay out the Monday after payday. They flirt with the fellows. They seem to consider war work a picnic rather than a serious job.

But Mary Anderson, head of the women's division of the U. S. Labor Department, just chuckled when she heard about it.

It seems that the gentleman is one of those who didn't want women in the plant in the first place. She said, "He is like a lot of foremen who, never having worked with women, are afraid of them. They complain 'How can we work women?' We can't 'cuss 'em out.'"

Inquiries among eastern aircraft executives showed that they are very well pleased with the work of the women in their plants.

In one of them, the first all-woman crew of drillers has smashed the men's record two weeks after they entered the factory.

In others they were at least as good as the men.

The only trouble is that it's the men who like to show off and give the girls the eye. But after a few days all that stops and they settle down to work again.

We have had co-educational schools and colleges for years. Why shouldn't we have co-educational factories?

This war is not a men's nor a women's war.

If we lose, we all go down together. If we win, the glory belongs to all of us.

Women have done splendid work in many phases of the war. They are just as anxious to get their share as men.

What if they do make themselves attractive? What if they do bring a happier note into the plant routine?

Japanese Are Facing Large Threat To Power By Defeats In Pacific

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, in Australia, Sept. 1.—Draw a giant pair of ice-tongs over the Pacific. Put one handle on north China and one on south China, Malaya and the Dutch East Indies and put a base on Formosa.

Then extend the tongs from Formosa south, curving around the Solomons and north around the Aleutians. For good measure add two additional prongs for Truk Island and bases in the Marshalls and in simple terms you have Japan's Pacific strategy—until United States Marines began to dent it three weeks ago.

When combined Allied forces set foot on the shores of Guadalcanal and Tulagi islands the first offensive move had been made by the United Nations in the Pacific, and by the move Japan's Pacific strategy has been seriously threatened.

Theory Blasted
Until from the ice-tong theory seemed foolproof. Every flank was protected and at each flank the end there was a great naval or air base for defense.

The prongs were as flexible as any known to military strategy. Naval units at Formosa could immediately reinforce and protect the rear and far north and the central Pacific, while the Truk installation, were especially designed for protection of the sea and air lanes from Hawaii to Japan.

In the far south there was Rabaul to harass New Guinea and the Australia-American shipping lanes. To the west there were Surabaya and Singapore. The plan to all appearances was perfect. No enemy force could move toward Japan without exposing itself to the Japanese pincers.

But then two things went wrong. The Japanese failed to reinforce the Solomons in time, and the strength of General Douglas MacArthur's forces in New Guinea was underestimated.

May Be Start
By those errors Japan may have started the Allied nibbling which will eventually result in crumbling of her blitz-gained empire.

Monday's United Nations headquarters' communiqué announced the first important land setback that Japanese forces have suffered to date in this war.

Strong Japanese forces backed up by mechanized equipment, with vastly superior naval units and readily available planes and air men for a sky umbrella, were unable to take strategically vital Milne Bay on the tip of the New Guinea-Papua toe.

MacArthur's defending forces, principally seasoned Australians under command of Major General Cyril Clowes, in the short space of perhaps 72 hours in hand-to-hand position fighting, soundly scotched off-repeated Axis claims that Japan's jungle warriors are invincible.

At Milne Bay, Japanese methods practiced in Malaya, the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines—in fact everywhere they have attacked in the past—ran up against a solid stone wall.

Deductions Made

From this victory for MacArthur, which developed from defensive to offensive warfare by the Allies overnight, competent observers made these deductions tonight:

First, Japan planned to conquer Milne Bay in an effort to strengthen her southeastern flank which is gravely menaced by Marine landings in the Solomons. From there observers had no doubt the Japs intended to make a desperate stab to retake Guadalcanal and other Solomon bases.

Second, the Japanese seriously underestimated Allied strength in the Milne Bay area, and apparently were completely surprised by the force and ferocity of defending troops.

Third, the Japanese are now only too conscious of the new menace which the Allies are rapidly developing at Milne Bay and in the Solomons to her key strongholds at Rabaul and Truk and there is every reasonable likelihood they may attempt a full-scale move toward reconquest.

Fourth, the Japanese underestimated the strategic worth of New Guinea—long emphasized by American observers—and instead of making a major move to get control of the whole territory they figured to swing the pendulum in their favor by neutralizing action alone.

Definitely Crippled

Now observers see her southeast tongs definitely crippled, once by Allied offensive action and once by defensive action which developed into offense, killing or crippling many of her trained and seasoned jungle forces which made the thrust against Milne.

At present observers see only one alternative for Japan—a full-scale reversion of New Guinea and the Solomons against unknown but obviously strong Allied forces, or withdrawal to the north to consolidate Rabaul as her key position.

Whatever she does, her flanks are now exposed and it would appear that at long last the Japs are going to have to do a little running.

Reports emanating from Milne indicated the enemy started running Sunday night when Japan pulled out her forces and latest releasable news from the area shows that those who stayed are still running.

Ground actions which at present are reported under way at Kokoda and Salamaua may be taken lightly in view of the fact that GHQ has announced they are only reconnaissance and patrol, although there are indications that Japanese pressure on Kokoda is increasing steadily.

But from all appearances the Japanese have retired or are retiring from New Guinea as a whipped force.

Average College Student Bigger

Also Stronger And More Health-minded Than Student Of 25 Years Ago

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Sept. 1.—The average college student is bigger, stronger, and more health-minded than 25 years ago, says Dr. Joseph P. Ritenour, who has completed his 25th year as director of the student health service at the Pennsylvania State College.

"The physical condition of students is better because they are now trying to prevent illness instead of curing it," Dr. Ritenour explained. "Years ago, students would not see their college physician until they were sick."

In making his annual report of the health service, which is 27 years old, Dr. Ritenour pointed out that during the period of July 1, 1941, to June 30, 1942, there were about 48,000 student visits to the college dispensary and infirmary. "These figures do not include the examination of freshmen when they enter Penn State."

"The primary purpose of the student health service is to get students to visit the dispensary for regular physical checkups in order to keep them physically and mentally healthy," the health director said.

Five doctors and 11 nurses have treated over 42,000 cases at the dispensary, which takes care of the minor illnesses and physical examinations. Over 5,239 patients were admitted to the infirmary, with 597 students staying home more than one day. The average days spent there by patients are 2.8.

Logan Answers Ross' Statements

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—Charging Auditor General F. Clair Ross of being guilty of "pure fabrication," revenue secretary Edward B. Logan denied today that political motives prompted orders to registers of wills in 16 counties to dismiss 126 "unnecessary" employees on the inheritance and mercantile tax staffs. Ross is the democratic nominee for governor.

He asserted that Ross has attempted to establish "that the Republican party has something to do with my efforts to get rid of these unnecessary employees because, as he said, 'they want to shield tax dodgers.'"

Logan said that Ross tried to justify the "padded inheritance mercantile tax payrolls" on the basis of

Garbage Workers Are Still On Strike

Garbage Removal Presents Problem To Housewives In Midst Of Canning

Garbage workers were still on strike today and according to reports some of the men, who received their pay several days ago, already have secured other jobs, some in the city and others at transfer.

Meanwhile, the housewife who is in the midst of canning, is the actual sufferer. Some garbage was being removed yesterday and today by residents, or by one or two free lance garbage collectors, to the city furnace.

It was reported in city hall circles today that one man who is interested in the situation visited Safety Director D. O. Davies yesterday in an effort to bring both sides together. Mr. Davies could not be located this morning and other councilmen apparently were not in a position to discuss the situation.

Howard Phillips, superintendent of the Incinerator stated that the pickets have left the plant and people who have had cans filled with garbage emptied them at the plant yesterday and today. A private collector also removed some garbage from different sections yesterday.

Council may receive today or tomorrow, it was learned, a proposal from strikers that council increase the wages as requested but delay payment until January, if financial conditions of the city do not warrant payment this year.

When the garbage men asked for a raise the unions took the attitude they had refused other departments an increase and could not change their stand, and the garbage men walked off the job.

Bids for private collection will be opened by council September 5.

"They should be given a chance to get the proper kind of training so that when they go into action they will have a chance. Gurney stated that selection of the younger men has been too long delayed now and that it should have started on December 8-24 hours after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Government Experts Consider Plan Of Meat Rationing

Move May Come In Four Months

Voluntary Curb On Meat Eating Urged On Nation As Stop-Gap

MEAT SUPPLY IS AT RECORD HEIGHT

By JAMES OLDS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Government experts today were drafting an order limiting meat supplies to packers as approval of recommendations for a nationwide program of meat rationing, perhaps in four months, was considered a virtual certainty.

The broad program to insure equitable distribution of the nation's meat supplies was decided upon by the War Production Board's foods requirements committee and is subject only to approval of the WPB.

Noting that rationing cannot be made ready in less than four months, the committee directed that in the meantime packers be limited to about 2½ pounds per person per week the amount of meat they may sell into civilian trade. Such an order is now being drawn up and may be ready in about two weeks.

Ask Voluntary Curb

As a stop-gap, until the rationing system can be put in effect about Jan. 1, the group urged civilians to voluntarily curb their consumption of so-called "red meats"—beef, pork, lamb and mutton—by substituting chicken, poultry, fish and beans.

The committee said that plans to make the voluntary curtailment program effective, including institution of a nation-wide meatless day, will be announced shortly.

Meanwhile, meatless Wednesday will be started tomorrow in all of the 52 government cafeterias in Washington.

The foods committee, representing nine federal agencies and headed by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, unanimously agreed that consumer rationing of meat "is the most equitable method of assuring each civilian his fair share of the normal total supply."

Program Contemplated

The program decided upon was designed to accomplish two objectives:

1. To assure adequate meat supplies for the United States army and navy, and through lend-lease shipments, for America's allies.
2. To help bring about equitable distribution of the meat supply available for civilian consumption after military and United Nations demands have been met.

"We can't take the meat away from our fighting men," the committee said. "Also we must keep sending our allies enough to sustain their war efforts."

Wickard said that the total supply of meat is the largest on record and for the present marketing year the meat output will be over 24,000,000,000 pounds. But he added, the total demand is also the largest on record.

"Our fighting forces need large quantities of our meat," he said. "Our allies need large supplies. Military and lend-lease schedules now call for about 6,000,000,000 pounds.

and may go higher if ships become available. On top of that, our civilian population, with the highest incomes on record, working harder than ever before, want more meat than ever before. They would take about 21,000,000,000 pounds this year.

"The total demand adds up to more than the total supply, 27,000,000,000 pounds of demand; 24,000,000,000 of supply."

Rotarians See Aircraft Warning Picture On Monday

Telephone Company Film Shown By Baldwin—General Martin Guest Of Club

Local Rotarians, and a number of visitors, were privileged to see the new talking picture presented through the courtesy of the Bell Telephone Company, on the Aircraft Warning Service and Civilian Defense, which gave members a clear insight into this important function of defense.

Paul Baldwin, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company, had charge, and called attention of the members to the need for further conserving telephone use to make way for industry and army usage. He stated that during the recent air raid test, telephone users cooperated splendidly during the test, but immediately afterwards, telephone usage jumped about 400 calls more than the average in a 15-minute period.

The picture showed just what happens from the moment an aircraft observer spots a plane, until the warning is flashed to an interceptor command center, and how the alert is given communities to prepare for an air raid, and how each branch of civilian defense coordinates in preparing for the impending emergency.

Dr. W. L. Beal, president of the club, announced that there would be no meeting of the club next week, because of Labor Day.

General Edward Martin, Republican candidate for governor, and a member of Rotary, was introduced to the club members.

There were a number of guests present from surrounding clubs.

Over Eleven Hundred Persons Killed Riding Bicycles Last Year

Riding a bicycle in these days of tire and gasoline rationing may be patriotic, but it won't make a hero of the rider who is killed or injured through carelessness.

faulty brakes may lead to your downfall, Mr. Cullford stated.

Don't ride a bike in traffic until you have had sufficient practice to give you self-confidence; even then, riding in congested areas is risky. Don't zig-zag over the road; keep to the right.

Don't violate traffic regulations; the rules for motorists apply to bicyclists too.

Don't ride after dark unless your bike is equipped with a headlight and a tail reflector.

Don't speed on wet pavements—you may skid into a car.

Don't stunt or race in traffic.

Don't "hitch" on to moving automobiles or trucks.

And, unless you have a "bicycle built for two," don't carry a second passenger and foolishly endanger two lives.

Missing Woman Found Murdered

(International News Service)

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 1.—Search for Margaret Senteney, 20-year-old Carpinteria Sunday school teacher and choir singer, missing since Friday night, ended Monday when her battered body was found near the ranch house of Leopold Stokowski, noted conductor.

Authorities said that the woman apparently had been strangled to death, although head wounds indicated that she had been savagely clubbed with the blunt end of an axe.

Junior Red Cross Gives $12,000 For Convalescent Home

Additional Gift To Aid Sick And Wounded British Children Announced

The American Junior Red Cross National Children's Fund has set aside $12,000 for the creation and support for one year of a convalescent home for sick and wounded British children, it was announced by Dr. John A. Meehan, Chairman, Lawrence Co. Chapter, Junior Red Cross.

Following a suggestion by Lady Limerick of the British Red Cross, plans have been made to set up the convalescent home to take care of children who cannot be cared for in the regular war nurseries of England. Approximately 25 beds, with complete hospital facilities, will be available for the care of special cases resulting from war conditions.

Prior to this summer, when they were taken over by the British Ministry of Health, more than $91,000 had been sent to England from the Junior Red Cross National Children's Fund to assist in the support of the regular war nurseries. The National Children's Fund is made up of voluntary contributions earned by individuals and groups among the more than 14,000 school children members of the American Junior Red Cross. The Lawrence County Junior Red Cross members have contributed part of their service money to this particular work and letters of appreciation have been received by the Chapter.

Former Bundist Is Indicted On Treason Charge

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Anthony Cramer, 42, former German-American bundist and alleged accomplice of the six Nazi spies electrocuted recently in Washington, was indicted Monday on a charge of treason—a capital punishment offense.

When Judge Knox learned Cramer had no attorney and had vainly sought help from a friend in Buffalo he postponed the pleading until Friday.

The indictment charges that Cramer was an accomplice of Werner Thiel and Edward John Kerling, both of whom were executed after trial before a court martial.

Cramer, a former German soldier, sought a job at the Brooklyn navy yard and also at Pearl Harbor just before the Japanese attack last December 7.

Chemical Vat Bubbles Over; Youth Killed

(International News Service)

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 1.—Edward McCool, 20-year-old son of the superintendent of the Elkton Water Works, was killed and three other workmen were burned Monday when a chemical vat bubbled over at the nearby plant of the Triumph Explosive company.

Company officials said McCool suspected something unusual was happening in a reclaiming tub. He peered over the top of the vat, they said, just as the mixture boiled up. He died of burns of the face.

The other three men, all residents of Elkton, were burned when the liquid scattered. They were treated by plant physicians.

Crucial Battles Carded Tonight In City League

Race May Be As Tight As New Pair Shoes Before Another Nightfall

Before nightfall, the City Baseball league may be as tight as a new pair of shoes. Tonight's skirmishes will either make or break the Slovaks and Ellwood, the two teams which are pressing the league leading Moose.

As of today, the Moose, first half winners, have captured 11 out of 15 and lead the Slovaks by a game and a half. The leaders confront the dangerous West Pittsburgh "Gashouse Gang" on Marshall field, starting at 6 o'clock.

West Pittsburgh blew its title some time ago. Because of the carefree atmosphere, the "Gashouse Gang" is dangerous and may toss a hand grenade into the Moose dugout.

Slovaks Set
Their sights pointed at first place, the Slovaks will unfold their most potent lineup to take Croton on Cascade field. The Slovaks have captured 10 out of 16. By grabbing their remaining five tussles the Slovaks figure to be at the top. Croton has capped seven out of 16.

Ellwood City's title-minded aggression rooms on its home tract, Ewing Park, facing Bessemer. The Slovaks have lost a half dozen verdicts and could finish in the sky spot by sharing its remaining six battles.

The Elders, defeated only six times but confronted with the task of having to play nine more games, takes on the last place Lawrence Indies on Cedar grounds. With a St. Louis Cardinal-like drive, the Elders could lift themselves into the title picture.

Enlistments Hit Pennsy Colleges' Football Prospects

Wicht Denies Intramural Programs Will Replace Scholastic Sports

By JOHN PAGET
(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 1.—Although war-time transportation difficulties threaten interscholastic sports programs, the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association is preparing today to inaugurate the 1943 gridiron season with a series of nine state-wide conferences to acquaint officials with changes in football rules.

Edmund C. Wicht, executive secretary of the P.I.A.A. has announced that Dr. Frank P. McGuire, commissioner of officials, will tour Pennsylvania the next two weeks to hold football clinics and interpret intramural meetings at centralized points. Wicht said the meetings were "a follow-up on the association's policy of keeping high school athletes playing during the current school year."

Despite the possibility that extensive programs in track, football, and basketball may have to be curtailed since transportation officials have ruled that school buses cannot be used to haul athletic teams to inter-sectional events, Wicht emphatically has denied that interscholastic sports will be replaced by intramural programs.

With the 1942 gridiron campaign just around the corner, Pennsylvania's major colleges have opened training sessions for their squads although most of them have been hard hit by enlistments or inductions into the armed services and graduations.

Coach Hooks Mlynar, who coached 22 players and said the must depend upon sophomores and freshmen. Temple university's prospects also depend largely upon candidates who will report this week to bolster the 27 men who reported for spring practice. Coach Ray Morrison, who brought the razzle-dazzle style of play of the southwest to Temple, believes he can find a dozen freshmen that can be developed as substitutes.

The University of Pennsylvania opens training sessions at Hershey September 9 with about 50 candidates including 18 sophomores. So far, the Red and Blue's coach, George Munger, has not hazarded a prediction of Penn's chances in the Ivy league. Bob Higgins, Penn State's mentor, thought he had a strong 1942 squad but 17 players now are serving in the armed forces, including 10 members of last year's squad.

Odds and ends. Frank Roth, faculty director of athletics at John Harris high school at Harrisburg since 1927, has been removed from office in a drastic shake-up of athletic officials. Steve Crothers of Chestnut Hill broke 10 consecutive days to capture prize in the August target shoot at the Roxborough Gun club near Philadelphia. The eastern region American Legion junior championship was annexed by Coplay, Lehigh county champions, from Lewisburg in a best out of three series.

Eagle Is Loser To Yancey Henry

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—Yancey Henry, Pittsburgh Negro heavyweight, today held a close split decision over tough Charley Eagle, of Waterbury, Conn., after 10 rounds of torrid battling last night at nearby Hickey Park.

Henry lost two rounds, the fourth and the fifth, for low punching, but in general gave the New England fighter a severe beating in the stomach. Henry weighed in at 188 pounds to Eagle's 179.

George Trautman, president of the American association, who is a colonel in the army, has been granted a leave of absence for the duration of the war. The association directors decided that the association's annual play-offs would start September 9, without any days off for traveling.

West Pittsburgh Defeats Croton

"Gashouse Gang" Snaps Out Of Seven Game Losing Streak; Wins, 4-3

Defeated seven consecutive times, West Pittsburgh finally hit the winning combo again Monday night at West Pittsburgh, shading Croton, 4-3, in a City Baseball league fray.

The "Gashouse Gang" tallied its runs in the first two frames. Staked to a four run margin, Papa had what it took to silence the Croton hickories.

A. DeMonaco led the attack for the winners, lifting a pair of doubles. Papa, besides giving up a half dozen hits, blasted a two bagger. Appenech and Rubies featured at bat for the Crotonites.

Free from the clamor and activities of the city, New Castle high's 1942 gridiron corps is rapidly whipping itself into condition in a veritable Utopia—Muddy Creek Falls in Slippery Rock township.

The anxious athletes cut city life early yesterday when they shoved off for camp from Taggart stadium at 8:30 o'clock. Up until Saturday about noon, the stalwarts will undergo a strict football diet loaded with every gridiron vitamin in the books.

Scrimmages, punting, pass throwing, sack receiving, charging, defense, offense, the huddle and other phases of the colorful game spearheaded the camp program.

As in past seasons, Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will send the squad through two-a-day drills, one a breakfast date and the other a matinee engagement.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Tiny bits about this and data:—

Some time this week Joe Audiino, a he-wolf for linemen for New Castle High in 1938-39 and 40, enters the United Coast Guard Service. The well-liked South Side recent, by passed all the prescribed tests and was placed on the inactive duty role.

At least one rah-rah eleven will be captured by a Lawrence countian this season. I've reference to Albert Picuta, Mahoningtown, who was awarded the coveted post at John Carroll university in Cleveland.

The ex-'Cane' gem, who spent the summer working in the Ohio town, will fill the fullback berth. Two of his brothers, who gridironed for New Castle High, too, are J. C. men. Andy enters the institution this fall, while Tony enrolled after serving his tenure here.

New Castle High's 1942 football season tickets were placed on the market this morning at The Sporting Goods Store, 105 North Mercer street. . . Johnny Pape, Hillsville curve twister, has won nine out of 10 games in Youngstown's rugged Class AA loop.

Paul McCullough stopped in to sell us his Youngstown All-Stars, who battle the Moose Sunday on Marshall field. The localie, who was named "Dizzy" by Casey Stengel back in the 20's, will pitch. This alone is worth the price of admission.

Farrell High, New Castle's October 9 foe here, has five lettermen left from last season's doughty eleven. . . Charley Wagner, Red Sox pitcher, had notched nine straight wins over the Athletics before the Mackmen tripped him early last month.

Short, short love story: In 1939, while she was a student at Iowa and he played for Minnesota, Marjorie Ball razed George "Sonny" Francis through a letter—about the Gophers' 13-9 defeat to the Hawks.

The pair now has announced their engagement! . . .

yesterday's opening sessions fatigued but smiling.

As the week moves along, the drills will increase in tempo.

By the time the contingent hauls its baggage back to town, New Castle high's 1942 varsity, which has an opening date with Butler here a week from Friday night, will be counting the minutes until the clamor of the gallery fills the atmosphere as the ball sails into the cool autumn air.

Marsh Goldberg Signs With Cards

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The Chicago Cardinals' 1942 season was under way officially today with the signing for the fourth straight year of Marshall Goldberg, one of the most valuable players in the National Football League last season.

Goldberg, who had been holding out because of the pressure of business with a Chicago machinery company, insisted on a clause making his contract void if football interfered with his business. He was to report immediately at Waukegan, Wis., where the Cards are in training.

FORFEIT CLAIMED

BY ST. MARGARET

St. Margaret's claims a forfeit over the Keystone A. C.

Tonight on E & A field, Mahoningtown, the Saints play host to Wampum, in a City-County Independent Baseball league attraction.

pitcher of each side being called on either to win or lose the series.

Joe Gordon and Phil Rizzuto are mighty handy men around the keystone. Gordon is great. But we'll take Billy Herman and Pee Wee Reese to out-do them as a unit with the chips down.

Herman is in his last legs. But Billy is a devastating competitor when the going is rougher. And Reese, both from the point of spirit and ability is the most improved ball player in the major leagues.

Now we're really going to stick out our turkey neck. We take Pete Reiser over Joe DiMaggio in center field. We are taking it for granted, of course, that Reiser, now ailing will be ready for the series.

We like Reiser because of his play as of late—slashing, head-ups and filled with a will to win—as against DiMaggio's methodical, yet lack of inspired performance. We know the San Francisco terror is a good money player, but some inexplicable element has been lacking in Joe this season and we feel it will come glaringly in the series.

This gives us, in our opinion, the edge down the all-important center line. How about other aspects of the pay-off tussle for the golden rewards of series loot?

The Yankees have lost Tommy Henrich to the Coast Guard. That gives us an advantage in right field, with Dixie Walker to blast 'em in the pinch for the Brooks from that position.

Medwick over Keller. And we'll take Ducky Medwick over Charley Keller in left field. Medwick is reaching the twilight of a great career. Look back over the records and see how many great players went out with a blazing flash as they reached the end of their playing days.

If you think we are kidding, we have laid a nice wager on the Dodgers, in that they win both the pennant and the series. We wouldn't advise you to follow our way of thinking, as betting, like the handling of one's mother-in-law, is every man's own affair.

But we still think we are right.

BOBO IS BACK IN DODGERLAND

Faltering Brooklynites Purchase Newsom To Bolster Collapsing Staff

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Like the black sheep of old, bold and bad Buck (Bobo) Newsom has come back to the fold to try and lead Brooklyn's bewildered baseball flock to their second straight National League pennant.

This vagabond of baseball's by-paths, full of the confidence that has dripped from his lips through one of the stormiest careers in diamond history, was with the desperate Dodgers in Pittsburgh today after a surprise sale for an estimated $200,000 by the Washington Senators.

With his team collapsing under the fire of the stretch-driving Cardinals, President Leland Stanford MacPahl, characteristically, called a delightfully daffy, prodigal son home to lead his Dodgers back on the victory road.

Return Inevitable

This return of the native was as inevitable as death and taxes. It is simply the old story of water finding its lowest level; of the truth of that deathless diamond axiom: "Once a Dodger, always a Dodger."

For Newsom, a portly, sometimes brilliant, sometimes awful, braggart, was born a Dodger back in 1929 and now appropriately seems destined to live out the dying years of a colorful career with them.

He's back where he belongs, old big-talking Bob is, and even if his strong right arm can't live up to the marvelous promises of his persuasive tongue, he'll add colored lightning to the diamond drama of the National League during these final weeks.

What a spot for this big swaggering storm king of the majors! He comes to the team they once called the "daffiness boys" as they fight for their baseball lives! Brooklyn, which had a nine and half game lead on August 15 today was but three and a half in front of the never-say-die Cardinals.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 1.—If Ted Schroeder is the favorite to win the national title, in progress at Forest Hills today, what does it make the only man who beat him on grass this season? Just another guy named Billy, is the answer in William Talbert's case.

Talbert, who idles in the quarter finals today, waiting upon the outcome of the Pancho-Harris Everett match, is just about the most overlooked player in the tournament.

The first upset of the tournament was recorded yesterday, when Patricia Canning Todd, seeded sixth, dropped an extra set match to Mrs. Madge Harshaw Vosters, of Lansdowne, Pa., 1-6, 6-3, 9-7. Mrs. Todd is the national indoor and eastern clay court champion.

All the other favorites won, both among the men and women. Youth Claims Girl Is Killed By Mystery Shot

Says Shot Fired Through
Cabin Window To Slay
13-year-old Girl

(International News Service)

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Sept. 1.—Woodburn Miller, 22-year-old parolee, today remained steadfast in his story that mysterious gunshot blasts through the window of a cabin caused the death of a 13-year-old girl companion and critical wounds to himself.

On a hospital bed at Mt. Holly, Miller told authorities that "a soldier" had fired the shots which killed Jean Bush, daughter of a state forest ranger. Miller was found on a highway nearby, bleeding profusely. He told police:

"I had been in a cabin with Jean Bush. A soldier killed her, then shot me."

Miller, of Medford, only six months ago was paroled from a reformatory after serving a sentence for housebreaking which developed from charges that he kidnapped an 18-year-old mother and forced her to live with him for eight days in deserted cabins of the Medford Lakes region. The abduction charges were dropped when neither the "victim" nor her husband chose to prosecute.

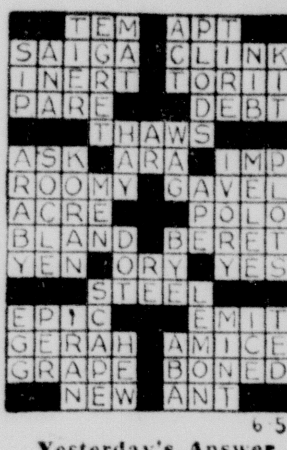

Miller said he had taken the girl in her father's car to nearby Penberton for medical treatment for asthma, but found the doctor was out. Then they started toward Mt. Holly, but as far as police could learn never reached here.

Police found the girl's body lying outside the cabin. She had been shot through the back. Nearby was a 12-gauge shotgun, which authorities said was the death weapon.

There was nothing in the cabin, a one-room, one-story log structure, to indicate that anyone had been there for some time, police reported.

GOODY, GOODY
Fans of Muskogee, Okla., in the Western association, have ceased calling Outfielder Ray Baker of Topeka a "pop up."

At Muskogee, fans rode Baker, one in particular giving him a panning every time he came up to the plate. On each trip to the bat, this fan would greet Baker with "Here comes old Pop Up." Four times did Baker come to bat one night, four times was he thusly razzed, and four times did he park the ball out of the lot for home runs.

Hal Turpin, the veteran pitcher who is having such a great year for Seattle, may apply for overtime wages. He recently pitched his ninth extra-inning game of the season and it was the third in a row for the Pacific Coast league ace.

No. 1 Bombardier Of Army, In Australia

(International News Service)
SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Sept. 1.—The No. 1 bombardier of the U. S. Army Air Forces in the southwest Pacific is Sgt. Mike Levin of Brooklyn, the man who sank the giant Japanese battleship Haruna in a plane piloted by the late Capt. Colin Kelly.

Sgt. Levin arrived in an Australian city today to enjoy his first leave since last December.

Since the morning of Dec. 8 he has participated in more than 100 combat missions, many of them lasting two and three days.

Besides the Haruna, he sank a 15,000-ton transport in the Coral Sea battle, numerous merchantmen, at least several cruisers and a number of lesser warships. In addition, he has plastered many Japanese bases in this area.

A knowledge of his subject plus an insatiable need for timing makes Mike Levin the great bombardier.

It took him three years to acquire that knowledge in the science of bombing.

He celebrated July 4 by marking up two Zeros to add to his already imposing collection of enemy planes shot down. His Flying Fortress was returning from Lar where Levin's bombs had blown up a large gasoline dump when it was attacked by five Zeros. The big bomber was firing slowly because one engine was out of action.

One Zero came head on, pointing for Levin or the pilot. Mike had him out of the way before he was within 600 yards. The navigator slapped Levin's back and then turned to see another Zero diving down last on the other side.

Levin yanked his machine gun from left to right and emptied the full can of ammunition into the fighter. It turned on its back and crashed in flames.

To date Levin has bailed out twice, both times after his biggest successes. He jumped after sinking the Haruna and again when his Fortress ran out of gas after the Coral Sea battle.

Mike's ambition today is to add a Jap carrier to his list, and with the way things are going in the southwest Pacific, that may be sooner than he expects.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad's "oldest engineer" retired Monday. Thomas J. Quirk, 70, of nearby McKees Rocks, who has spent 51 of the last 52 years piloting locomotives for the P. & L. E., made his last run to Youngstown, O., and then relinquished his claim as the oldest engineer in the point of service on the road.

Said Quirk of the future: "Well, I guess I'll be going around visiting my friends and do some travelling."

The office grouch advises us that if we want to make a living we have to work for it, but if we want to get rich we'll have to go about it in some other way.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—The successful restoration of sanitary conditions in areas damaged by flash floods was cited today by the department of health as an example of the state's ability to cope with emergencies.

"Although we have had no experience with actual air raids, we would, if called upon, be ready to cope with any emergencies arising from them within the province of our work," asserted H. E. Moses, chief engineer of the bureau of sanitary engineering.

The unexpected floods in Pennsylvania wrought havoc with drainage systems and public water works in the inundated areas, destroying some and crippling many others, Moses revealed.

"Emergency crews worked day and night rehabilitating the systems in order to provide sanitary water for the residents of the stricken communities," he said. The first flash flood, in the Honesdale section, crippled the public water works when the rampaging streams broke pipes and washed them away. Moses stated that clean-up work was made more difficult because of the tremendous quantity of silt and culm carried down by the flood waters.

In the Carbonate area, four large water mains were broken, and 16,000 persons were deprived of the public supply for days, said Moses. The emergency was met, he added, by hauling water into the area in sterilized tank trucks.

Supplying pure drinking water by sterilization and by disinfecting pipe lines was the bureau's chief task, Moses explained. He hailed the success of the engineers' work by citing the absence of any outbreaks of disease.

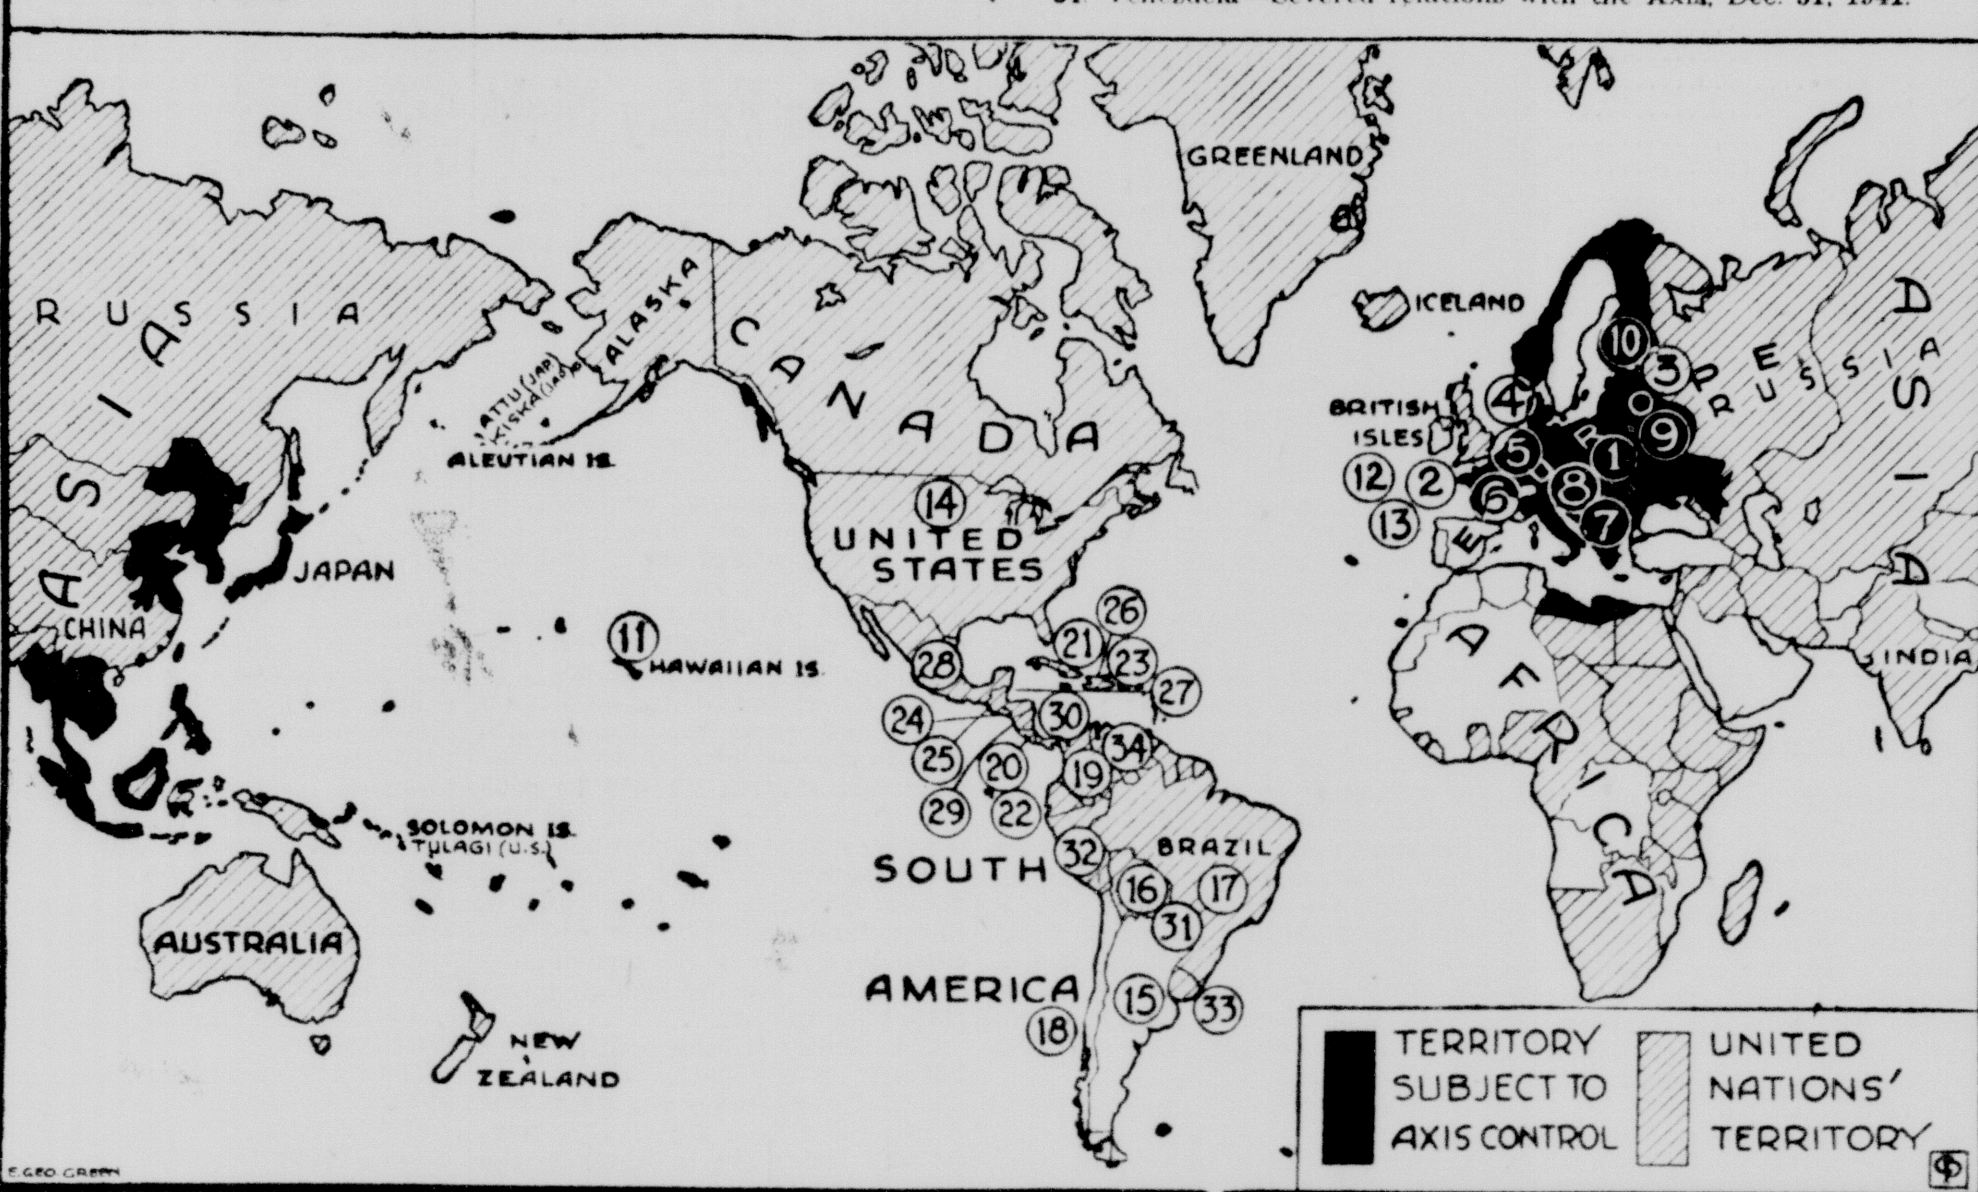

Moses estimated that the total flood damage in Pennsylvania would approximate the $212,535,020 damage caused by the March 1936 floods. The recent inundations occurred in northeastern, north central and southeastern Pennsylvania and accounted for 75 deaths, compared to 80 who lost their lives in the spring floods six years ago.
